During the ceremony

Your graduation ceremony will last for approximately one hour. Graduands and guests will be asked to stand as the procession enters the Hall. After a short speech from the presiding officer, graduands will be called up on stage to receive their award.

- A marshal will guide the graduand to the foot of the stairs.
- Graduands come onto the stage one by one, as their names are announced by the presenter. It's customary for each graduand to be applauded as they mount the stage.
- If they wish, graduands may curtsy or bow – and doctoral graduands may tip their hats – at the top of the stairs. Graduands then move forward to the Presiding Officer to shake their hand and collect their certificate. At this point they are formally admitted to their degree and become a graduate of the University of Leeds.
- A photograph will be taken of the graduate as they meet the presiding officer on stage.
- Graduates turn left and exit the stage to return to their seat where they can enjoy the rest of the ceremony.
- The presiding officer will declare the congregation closed and the academic party recesses out of the Hall, followed by all the graduates. Guests will be directed to leave after all the graduates.
