Looking to boost your academic skills?

Skills@Library have released their new workshop programme and will continue to add new workshops every fortnight on topics including managing your time, and writing a literature review for an undergraduate research project. Take a look at what's on offer and book yourself on to a workshop. Remember these can fill up quite quickly, so book as soon as you can.

Student volunteering week

From 11th - 17th February we're celebrating national Student Volunteering Week with a full programme of volunteering taster sessions, Give it a Go events, and information sessions both on and off campus. From parkrun takeovers to canal clear ups there is a lot to get involved with, so make a date in your diary to make a difference.

Calling all final year undergraduates!

The National Student Survey is now open. If you are an undergraduate in your final year, make sure you have your say about your time here at the University of Leeds. The survey is run by an independent company, Ipsos Mori and your responses are confidential. It only takes around 10 minutes and you can earn 100 free printer credits by completing the survey online.

Have your say about our digital education systems

You're invited to join a user group to provide feedback on your experience of using our digital education systems, including lecture capture and Minerva. Your input will help to shape future developments and improvements to these systems. The group will meet once every two months either virtually or on campus, and refreshments will be provided when meetings are face to face. Express your interest by Friday 22 February.

Learn a new language for free today

Learning another language increases your cultural awareness, improves your employability and builds your confidence to travel, study or work abroad.

Rosetta Stone is an innovative online software that makes learning a language fast and easy. It's free for all University students and you can learn on the go as it is easily accessible from different devices.

Choose from any of the 30 languages offered and increase your skills set today!
